LITTLE BROTHERS OF FRANCIS

Sources of Inspiration

We are a community of Brothers who desire to deepen our relationship with God through prayer, manual work, community, and times of being alone in our hermitages. We follow the Rule for Hermitages written by St Francis, in which three or four brothers live in each fraternity. As others join us, we envisage a federation of fraternities with three or four brothers in each.

There are four sources of inspiration for the Little Brothers of Francis. They are:

1. The Gospels.

The four Gospels - Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John - are central to our spirituality, and are the main source material for our meditation and prayer life.

2. St Francis.

Francis would recall Christ's words and life through persistent meditation on the Gospels, for his deep desire was to love Christ and live a Christ-centred life.

He was a man of prayer and mystic who sought places of solitude; hermitages played a central role in his life. Significant events, like the initiation of the Christmas Crib tradition, happened at the hermitage at Greccio, and, of course, he received the stigmata while he was at the hermitage at Mount la Verna - to mention just a couple.

Though the early brothers embraced a mixed life of prayer and ministry, Francis wanted places of seclusion - hermitages - for the primacy of prayer, in which three or four brothers lived, and for which he wrote a rule.

3. Saint Francis' Rule for Hermitages.:

In his brief rule for life within the hermitage, Francis avoids a detailed document, but sets out the principles that are important.

- ◆ 'Liturgy of the Hours' is the focus, and sets the rhythm of the daily prayer.
- ◆ Each hermitage was to have three - or at the most, four - Brothers, which meant that they would be both 'little' and 'fraternal'.
- ◆ Within this framework, Brothers could withdraw for periods of solitude.
- ◆ The hermitages were not to be places or centres of ministry.

4. Desert Fathers.

The stories and sayings of the Desert Fathers contain a profound wisdom for any who are serious about the inner spiritual journey. This is why they have held such prominence in monastic circles in both the East and the West down through the centuries, and why they are a priority source for us.
